

National Diet Library (NDL) Digitized Contents Transmission Service for Individuals

The Digitized Contents Transmission Service for Individuals is a service that allows you to access digitized versions of out-of-print or otherwise difficult-to-obtain materials in the NDL's collection from devices such as personal computers. Print-out function is also available.

Available content

- About 1.8 million materials available, that are out-of-print or otherwise difficult-to-obtain, of the NDL's about 3.61 million NDL's digitized materials.
- About 820,000 books acquired by the NDL up to 1987, and about 820,000 issues of periodicals published during or after the Meiji period, etc. (Excludes commercial publications and comics).

(as of October 2023)

How to use this service

- Login to the NDL Search with your User ID and password, and agree to the Terms of Service.
⇒Only for the first time use.

- Login to the National Diet Library Digital Collections and search for materials.

To use this service

- This service is available to official registered users of the NDL who resides in Japan.
⇒The procedure to become an official registered user is available online.
(Identification document required)

- You must agree to the Terms of Service.

For details

- Please see the NDL website.

*About 610,000 materials (copyright expired, etc.) are also available on the internet.